1 Purpose

The Ethical Supplier Mandate (the Mandate) outlines the manner in which the Queensland Government will manage instances where a supplier fails to meet a policy requirement.

2 Supplier Demerit Scheme

2.1 Application

The Mandate applies to all suppliers engaged by any procuring agency within the scope of the Mandate. The definition of 'supplier' includes subcontractors within the supply chain (see Appendix 1: Definitions).

For budget sector agencies, application of the Mandate commences:

- for the Building Construction and Maintenance Category on 1 August 2019
- for the Transport and Infrastructure Services Category on 1 October 2019

The Mandate will be expanded to include suppliers for other categories of spend, and agencies including statutory bodies, government owned corporations and special purpose vehicles, at dates to be determined in 2020.

Suppliers may be penalised for breaches by their subcontractors, except where the supplier has taken reasonable action to prevent the breach by their subcontractors.

An Implementation Review of the operation of the Mandate will take place by 30 June 2020.

2.2 Issue of demerits

Demerits can only be applied to a supplier if the contract where the breach occurred came into effect after the Mandate commenced. A supplier's conduct will be a breach of the Mandate in circumstances where the supplier knows, or ought to know, that the conduct is a breach, and is not due to an honest mistake, oversight or accident.

On receipt of information that a supplier has, or may have, failed to meet a policy requirement, the procuring agency which is party to the contract or arrangement will take steps to:

- determine whether the failure has occurred, or
- refer the matter to an appropriate regulator or law enforcement agency.

Some failures to meet policy requirements must be referred to an appropriate regulator or law enforcement agency. Where the breach of a policy requirement is referred, no further action will be taken under this Mandate until resolution of the regulatory or law enforcement process.

Any steps taken by the procuring agency should be made on the advice of the regulator or law enforcement agency.

Where the breach of a policy requirement is not referred to an appropriate regulator or law enforcement agency, the procuring agency will provide the supplier with an opportunity to respond. This opportunity will be provided prior to making a determination that a supplier has failed to meet a policy requirement.

In making its determination, the procuring agency may seek the advice, audit, or investigatory assistance of the QPP Compliance Unit within the Office of the Chief Advisor – Procurement, Department of Housing and Public Works.

Following supplier input (see section 2.4 below), the procuring agency will advise the Procurement Penalties and Sanctions Committee (the Committee) within five business days of any relevant determination of breach, regulatory sanction, or conviction. The Committee may grant extensions to this timeframe as requested to accommodate procuring agency needs for additional advice or investigation.

On advice from a procuring agency that a supplier has failed to meet a policy requirement or breached a law, the Committee will, unless it determines otherwise, issue a demerit or demerits to that supplier, depending on the severity of the instance of non-compliance.

Where demerits have been issued to a supplier, which subsequently ceases to trade, then the Committee may decide to issue the demerits to an entity related to the supplier where it determines that the entity:

- is a company that continues the business of the supplier, or
- is a related body corporate of the supplier.

Two, five, or ten demerits will be issued when an instance of non-compliance with a policy requirement occurs. The Committee does not have discretion to issue any other number of demerits for a single instance of non-compliance. The types of non-compliance are as follows.

Types of non-compliance*	Minor non-compliance (apply 2 demerit points per instance)	Moderate non-compliance (apply 5 demerit points per instance)	Major non-compliance (apply 10 demerit points per instance)

Notes:

Ethical Supplier Threshold: The QPP sets out the Ethical Supplier Threshold. # A breach of the Ethical Supplier Threshold results in the application of 20 demerit points.

* Demerit and sanction decisions can only be imposed in relation to actions that are a breach of a policy requirement that occurred after the date of the commencement of the Mandate. The Committee must not be advised of, or consider, existing demerit allocations when making their decisions.

 Directing compliance includes improvement notices and prohibition notices.

 Regulator sanctions include suspension, cancellation, revocation of authorisations, and enforceable undertakings.

* Court sanctions refers to criminal penalties and court orders.

In considering instances the Ethical Supplier Threshold, the Committee will reference the definition in Appendix 1: Definitions.

Adjudicated amount is an amount that is decided is owed from an adjudicated decision. Demerit point imposed only after statutory appeals period for a decision has passed.

For each offence.

Without valid legal excuse (i.e. a justified claim of confidentiality or privilege). Procuring agencies should not further engage suppliers or approve suppliers as subcontractors while QPP Compliance Unit information requests remain outstanding.

Where the Committee finds that an instance of non-compliance falls in between the categories (minor, moderate, and major) outlined above, the number of demerits applied will be the lesser of the two options.

Demerits will expire 12 months from the date they are issued.

2.3 Imposing Sanctions

The Queensland Government will, unless it determines otherwise, sanction suppliers once the supplier has received 20 demerits. Sanctions will be determined by the Committee. Sanctions include, but are not limited to:

- suspending a supplier’s prequalification for a defined period
- making a supplier ineligible for contract award for a defined period
- suspending a supplier from the relevant panel or contracting framework for a defined period, and
- precluding a supplier’s existing contract from being extended.

Sanctions only affect a supplier’s access to future contracts. Breaches associated with established and current contracts will be dealt with using contract management processes.

Where a supplier is registered under the National Prequalification System for Civil (Road and Bridge) Construction Contracts (NPS), the decision of the Committee will be referred to the agency responsible for the administration of that System in Queensland, to be actioned in accordance with that System. This referral will not affect the implementation of sanctions outside of that System.

2.4 Procedural Fairness

A supplier will be given ten business days to respond to allegations of a breach. This will occur prior to a procuring agency determining the supplier has failed to meet a policy requirement.

A supplier will be contacted before demerits are issued and offered ten business days to detail any extenuating circumstances that it would like the Committee to take into account. Extenuating circumstances may not include whether the failure to meet the policy requirement occurred.

Where demerits have been issued to a supplier that subsequently ceases to trade, then the Committee may decide to issue the demerits to an entity related to the supplier where it determines that the entity:

- is a company that continues the business of the supplier, or
- is a related body corporate of the supplier.

The entity will be offered ten business days to detail any extenuating circumstances that it would like the Committee to take into account. Such extenuating circumstances may not include whether the failure to meet the policy requirement occurred.

A supplier will be contacted before the imposition of a sanction and offered ten business days to detail any extenuating circumstances that it would like the Committee to take into account prior to the imposition of the sanction. Such extenuating circumstances may not include whether the failure to meet the policy requirement occurred nor whether demerits should have been issued.

Suppliers must be allowed time to respond. An extension may be granted if the supplier provides a reasonable request for more time.

2.5 Appeal process

A supplier can appeal against the application of demerits or a sanction if they believe the process outlined in the Mandate has not been followed, or the Committee failed to take extenuating circumstances into account.

The appeal may be made to the relevant Director-General. This must occur within ten business days from the date the sanction notice was received.

The appeal process is not an opportunity to revisit the matter that gave rise to the demerits or sanction. Suppliers may appeal only on the basis that the process was not followed (as outlined in this Mandate) or that it failed to take into account extenuating circumstances provided by the supplier.

The Director-General's decision will be considered final.

2.6 Further information

Suppliers seeking further information on the Mandate should contact:

There are four key points where suppliers are afforded procedural fairness:

1. when a breach is alleged
2. before the Committee considers issuing demerits
3. before the Committee considers imposing a sanction and
4. an opportunity to appeal a sanction.
