

Fraud and corruption control policy

1. Purpose

This policy identifies the minimum requirements and the responsibilities for the prevention, detection and response in relation to suspected fraud and corruption within the Department of Energy and Public Works (the department).

This policy applies to all persons working for and with the department. This includes employees working for the department (regardless of whether they are permanent, temporary, full-time, part-time or casual employees and/or on secondment from another department) and other persons who perform work for the department including contractors, students gaining work experience and volunteers. For the purposes of this policy, the term contractor includes on-hired temporary labour services (agency staff).

The policy:

- ensures that all persons working for and with the department act legally, ethically and in the public interest
- enables all persons working for and with the department to understand their responsibilities to prevent fraud and corruption occurring in the department, and
- should be read in conjunction with the Integrity Framework and the other relevant policies listed in Attachment 3.

2. Policy statement

Fraud and corruption have the potential to cause significant financial, reputational and service delivery harm to the department. These forms of wrongdoing also have a potential to diminish or damage community confidence in the department.

Accordingly, the department has no tolerance towards fraud and corruption. This is supported by a hierarchy of governance and controls which contributes to and supports our ethical culture.

The department recognises that fraud and corruption prevention and control are integral components of good governance and risk management.

The department is committed to effectively preventing, detecting and responding to incidents or threats of fraud and corruption, both internal and external, including through:

PREVENTION	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• actively fostering a robust integrity framework to maintain a strong ethical culture• implementing effective departmental wide anti-fraud and anti-corruption policies• management commitment to preventing, detecting and responding to fraud and corruption• undertaking employment screening on persons proposed to be engaged by the department, which may include, but is not limited to, checking criminal history, blue card, referees and serious discipline history• training in the requirements of the Code of Conduct for the Queensland Public Service (Code of Conduct)• implementing other education and awareness initiatives aimed at maintaining continued high standards of professional and ethical conduct• implementing, sustaining and monitoring effective preventative controls (for example, separation of duties and access controls)• publicly communicating the department's commitment to high standards of professional conduct and honest and ethical business practices
-------------------	---

DETECTION	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • undertaking regular reviews to assess fraud and corruption risks contained in operational risk registers • implementing appropriate internal controls which address the department's operating environment and specific risks • encouraging and supporting the internal and external reporting of suspected wrongdoing • strategically using information systems to detect suspected fraud
RESPONSE	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • effectively assessing and dealing with suspected wrongdoing through the department's Corrupt Conduct Intake and Assessment Committee and the Integrity Services Unit • supporting persons who make Public Interest Disclosures (PIDs) • external reporting to regulatory entities, such as the Crime and Corruption Commission, the Queensland Police Service and the Queensland Audit Office pursuant to legislative requirements • taking appropriate action in respect to substantiated fraud and corruption, which may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – undertaking a disciplinary process, which may result in disciplinary action, including termination of employment – referring matters to the Queensland Police Service – de-registering suppliers so they are unable to perform work for the department – pursuing the recovery of losses – implementing action to prevent reoccurrence

3. Responsibilities

3.1 Director-General

- Responsible for the overall prevention, detection and response in relation to fraud and corruption in the department.
- Manage public resources of the department efficiently, responsibly and in an accountable manner.
- Ensure that the department has appropriate policies, training and awareness initiatives and other control systems to prevent, detect and effectively manage fraud and corruption.
- Ensure impartiality and integrity in the performance of the department's functions.
- Ensure accountability and transparency in the department's operational performance.
- Visibly promote and communicate, both within the department and externally, that high standards of professional conduct and honest and ethical business practices are expected.
- Encourage and support the reporting of suspected wrongdoing.
- Ensure appropriate action is taken with respect to proven allegations of fraud and corruption.

3.2 Executive Leadership Team

- Ensure the appropriateness of the department's internal controls.
- Periodically review complaint information (including complaints of fraud and corruption).
- Take appropriate action to prevent fraud and corruption.

3.3 Divisional Heads, Business Area Heads and other departmental managers

- Display ethical leadership and high standards of behaviour consistent with the Code of Conduct.
- Ensure all persons working for and within their division/work area:
 - are made aware of their fraud and corruption control responsibilities, including the requirement to report suspected wrongdoing
 - comply with relevant policies and procedures, and
 - where applicable, complete the required mandatory training/induction about public sector ethics, including the Code of Conduct.
- Ensure that appropriate and effective internal controls are in place in their division/work area.
- Effectively manage risk in accordance with the department's Risk Management Framework.
- Promote and support whole-of-department fraud and corruption prevention initiatives.
- Take prompt and appropriate action to prevent fraud and corruption, including to pro-actively manage staff conduct.
- Advise the Integrity Services Unit of all suspected fraud and corruption.
- Ensure appropriate and timely action is taken regarding proven allegations of fraud and corruption.
- Ensure that recommendations arising from audits and investigations are treated as a priority and actioned promptly.

3.4 Deputy Director-General Corporate

In addition to the responsibilities set out in 3.3:

- Manage incidents of fraud and corruption which may constitute suspected corrupt conduct and/or a PID in accordance with departmental policy and legislative requirements.
- Ensure that fraud and corruption risk management is integrated into the department's operational risk management processes.

3.5 Integrity Services Unit

- Develop and maintain integrity-related policies and procedures
- Promote an ethical culture and appropriate decision making through fraud and corruption prevention initiatives.
- Report complaint information (including complaints of fraud and corruption) on a periodic basis to the department's Executive Leadership Team.
- Report on all fraud and corruption matters in accordance with relevant legislation.

- Manage and independently investigate complaints involving fraud and corruption, which may constitute suspected corrupt conduct and/or a PID.
- Provide independent advice regarding fraud and corruption matters to the Director-General, Divisional Heads (including the Deputy Director-General, Corporate), the Chief Finance Officer, the Chief Human Resources Officer, Business Area Heads and other departmental managers.

3.6 Internal Audit Unit

- Assess the adequacy and effectiveness of internal controls within business areas as part of routine auditing activities.
- Make recommendations to improve the effectiveness of key controls where required.
- Develop and execute selected data analytics programs to detect fraud and corruption.
- Provide advice to business areas in relation to preventing and detecting fraud and corruption.

3.7 Finance

In accordance with the Financial Accountability Act 2009, (through the Chief Finance Officer):

- Establish, maintain and review financial internal controls.
- Provide the Director-General with an annual assurance statement that the financial internal controls of the department are operating efficiently, effectively and economically.

3.8 Governance

- Oversee the department's risk management system, policy and framework.
- Coordinate risk reporting to Divisional Heads and the department's Executive Leadership Team.
- Facilitate risk management capability and maturity, including coordinate the divisional Risk Management Coordinators network.
- Maintain risk management guidance documents, training resources and other tools and templates.

3.9 Information technology

Through the Chief Information Officer:

- Establish, maintain and review technology-based prevention controls.
- Establish, maintain and review information and communications technology (ICT) and information management policy and supporting documents.
- Facilitate ongoing enhancements of an Information Security Management System that is aligned with Information Standard 27001.

3.10 Human Resources

- Coordinate, through the Chief Human Resources Officer, the effective implementation of department-wide education and training initiatives about public sector ethics, including the Code of Conduct.
- Provide advice on all relevant employment legislation (for example, the Public Service Act 2008), industrial instruments (for example, certified agreements and awards) and directives (for example, recruitment and selection).
- Provide advice on appropriate management action and/or disciplinary proceedings regarding alleged fraud and corruption by employees of the department.
- Liaise with the relevant external authorities to manage pre-employment screening activities.

3.11 All persons working for and with the department

- Act in an ethical manner in the workplace.
- Understand and comply with all policies and procedures including to:
 - safeguard assets, information and other resources under their control
 - ensure all administration is accurate with no deliberate omissions (for example, claiming allowances appropriately, recording accurate hours of work on timesheets and properly applying for leave)
 - register gifts and benefits offered, accepted and/or given in accordance with the relevant policy
 - declare all perceived, potential and actual conflicts of interest
 - immediately report all wrongdoing including suspicions of fraud and corruption - IN CONFIDENCE - to:
 - the Director-General or
 - the Deputy Director-General, Corporate or
 - the Chief Human Resources Officer or
 - the Integrity Services Unit or
 - a departmental supervisor/manager or
 - the Crime and Corruption Commission.
- Where applicable, complete mandated training/induction about public sector ethics, including the Code of Conduct.

To be clear, this policy assigns a responsibility to every person working for or with the department to take appropriate action to prevent fraud and corruption and report suspected fraud and corruption of which they become aware.

4. Delegations

N/A

5. Reporting requirements

The Deputy Director-General, Corporate and the Integrity Services Unit are responsible for reporting instances of fraud and corruption to external agencies (such as the Crime and Corruption Commission, the Queensland Police Service and the Queensland Audit Office) pursuant to legislative and other regulatory requirements.

Attachment 3: Definitions

Term	Description
Corrupt conduct	As per section 15(1) of the Crime and Corruption Act 2001 (Qld), Corrupt conduct is conduct of a person (regardless of whether the person holds or held an appointment) that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • adversely affects, or could adversely affect (directly or indirectly) the performance of functions or the exercise of powers of a unit of public administration or a person holding an appointment; and • results, or could result, directly or indirectly, in the performance of functions or the exercise of powers mentioned above in a way that— <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ is not honest or is not impartial; or ▪ involves a breach of the trust placed in a person holding an appointment (either knowingly or recklessly); or ▪ involves a misuse of information (or material) acquired in or in connection with the performance of functions or the exercise of powers of a person holding an appointment; and • would, if proved, be a criminal offence; or a disciplinary breach providing reasonable grounds for terminating the person's services (if the person is or were the holder of an appointment). As per section 15(2) of the Crime and Corruption Act 2001 (Qld), Corrupt conduct is also conduct of a person (regardless of whether the person holds or held an appointment) that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • impairs, or could impair, public confidence in public administration; and • involves, or could involve, any of the following – <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ collusive tendering ▪ fraudulent applications for licences, permits and other authorities under an Act necessary to protect – <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ the health and safety of persons ○ the environment ○ the use of the State's natural resources ▪ dishonestly obtaining benefits from the payment or application of public funds or the disposition of state assets evading State taxes, levies, duties or fraudulently causing a loss of State revenue ▪ fraudulently obtaining or retaining an appointment; and • would, if proved, be a criminal offence; or a disciplinary breach providing reasonable grounds for terminating the person's services (if the person is or were the holder of an appointment). For the full definition, please refer to section 15 of the Crime and Corruption Act 2001 (Qld). Corrupt conduct can be attributed to any person, regardless of whether or not they are employed in the department, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • employees • people who used to but no longer work in the department • people who subsequently take up an appointment in the department

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • people who are suppliers or providers to the department • other private individuals or organisations • people outside Queensland where there is a direct link between the conduct and its adverse effect on the department).² Refer to the Corrupt conduct prevention policy and the Corrupt conduct prevention procedure for further information.
Corruption	Corruption is a dishonest activity in which a person associated with an organisation (for example, director, executive, manager, employee, or contractor) acts contrary to the interests of the organisation and abuses their position of trust in order to achieve personal advantage or advantage for another person or organisation. This definition is based on the Australian Standard Fraud and Corruption Control (AS 8001-2021).
Divisional Heads	Divisional Heads means all Deputy Directors-General.
Fraud	Fraud is a dishonest activity causing actual or potential gain or loss to any person or organisation including theft of moneys or other property by persons internal and/or external to the organisation and/or where deception is used at the time, immediately before or immediately following the activity. Property in this context also includes intellectual property and other intangibles such as information. Fraud also includes the deliberate falsification, concealment, destruction or use of falsified documentation used or intended for use for a normal business purpose or the improper use of information or position for personal financial benefit. While conduct must be dishonest for it to meet the definition of ‘fraud’, the conduct need not necessarily represent a breach of the criminal law. This definition is based on the Australian Standard Fraud and Corruption Control (AS 8001-2021).

Attachment 4: Areas of perceived high fraud and corruption risk in the public sector

The following table outlines key functional areas in government agencies that the Queensland Audit Office has identified as being the most prone to fraud.³

Agency function, program or activity	Potential fraud risks
Procurement	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Fraudulent procurement by an employee or contractor • Fraudulent procurement practices by vendors • Fraudulent influence by an employee on panel arrangements or preferred supplier lists • Fraudulent contract management by an employee • Deliberately over-ordering resources to use the surplus for personal gain
Finance	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Fraudulent use of a corporate card • Fraudulent invoices requesting payment to false bank details • Misappropriation of cash • Misuse of CabCharge for personal use or profit • Seeking to award a grant outside the terms of the agreement and conditions for personal benefit • Claims for reimbursement for non work-related expenses
Human resources	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Nepotism in recruitment and selection processes • Corruption in promotion processes • Bias against an applicant in recruitment and selection processes • Deliberate manipulation of recruitment selection panels • Fraudulent deception by an applicant in recruitment and selection processes • Management knowingly concealing the corrupt conduct of subordinate employees
Payroll	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Fraudulent recording of overtime, allowances, penalties, or leave taken • Fraudulent manipulation of the rostering process • Inappropriate changes to master files • Fraudulent claims for study assistance
Assets	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Misappropriation of materials for private use or sale • Misappropriation of motor vehicles for private use or sale • Manipulation of a public auction or public tender process for disposal of assets
Reporting	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Fraudulent operational reporting by management • Fraudulent reporting to meet KPIs • Fraudulent reporting to meet government-imposed FTE limits • Manipulation of financial results (for example, non-accrual of expenses at year end to improve performance or over accrual to spend budget) • Manipulation of financial results to spend the allocated budget
Information	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Fraudulent disclosure of confidential information by an active or terminated employee for personal gain • Fraudulent disclosure of politically sensitive information • Destruction of public records to enable a cover-up

Attachment 5: Examples of types of fraud and corruption that may be relevant to the department

The following are provided as examples only and are not exhaustive. Any resemblance to actual conduct is purely coincidental.

Human Resources

- A job applicant uses false credentials or documents (for example, a false work history or qualifications) to obtain employment.
- A job applicant deliberately fails to disclose relevant criminal history during a recruitment and selection process.
- A member of a selection panel does not disclose a personal relationship with an applicant to favour the applicant.
- Timesheets are falsified to claim time or payments.
- Medical certificates are falsified to obtain paid time off work.
- Job statements or official documentation are falsified to conceal absence from duty.
- An employee makes false phone calls to generate call outs and overtime.
- False claims are made (for example, workers' compensation claims or allowance claims).
- "Phantom" employees are placed on the payroll with salaries diverted to an employee's own bank account.
- Employees deliberately fail to report overpayments.
- Former employees continue to receive departmental payments and do not disclose this.
- An employee impersonates a supervisor or manager.
- An employee directs a contractor to perform work at their private residence and to invoice the department.

Procurement

- Documents are falsified to obtain approval for payment.
- Signatures are forged on payment approval documentation.
- False invoices from fake or actual suppliers are submitted for payment.
- A panel member does not disclose a relationship with an offeror, so as to favour the offeror.
- Kickbacks or other rewards/benefits are provided to an employee on a procurement panel for a favourable assessment.
- Bid rigging (for example, prior to submitting bids, suppliers arrange who will win the tender and at what price).
- Price fixing (for example, suppliers agree on a pricing structure for goods and services).

Assets (including technology and information)

- Using others' passwords in payment systems and making payments to a personal bank account.
- An employee or agency staff takes an asset home falsely claiming it is not working and needs to be disposed of.
- A property is purchased at a higher than market value in exchange for a kickback.
- Falsification of departmental vehicle logs to conceal private use.
- Accessing government databases/systems to view personal information of the community (including clients) and/or government employees for non-work purposes.

Finance

- Stealing funds by diverting funds to a fake account which appears to be a genuine payee.
- A false payment instruction is created, with forged signatures.
- Some cash is taken before (cash) receivables are recorded.
- Improper revenue recognition (for example, recording false sales, over/under estimating percentage of work completed on long-term contracts).
- Orders are split to avoid delegation limits.
- False statements are made (for example, to conceal losses, inflate the value of receivables, provide false stock counts).
- Travel is undertaken for predominantly personal purposes but recorded as official travel.
- Deliberately underestimating the value of a gift.

Other

- A supervisor falsely reports that work by a contractor has been completed to a satisfactory standard, in return for a kickback or other reward/benefit from the contractor.

Attachment 6: Identifying fraud and corruption risks

The Queensland Audit Office has listed factors to consider when identifying potential fraud risks.

Category	Attribute	Factors that increase fraud risk	Fraud exposure
Financial	Materiality of economic flows	High value/low volume, and/or high volume/low value transactions with third parties.	Fraud risk increases in both likelihood and consequence as the sums involved increase.
	Nature of transactions	Non-exchange/non-reciprocal where values given do not match values received, e.g. grants, subsidies, donations, rates and other involuntary transfers.	Unlike a commercial exchange, the inability to readily compare or reconcile the value of what was provided with the value of what was received increases the opportunity for fraud and the likelihood that it remains undetected.
	Susceptibility to manipulation	Accounting balances require subjective measurements involving high levels of judgement or expertise to calculate.	The manipulation of accounting balances can be used to conceal frauds or may itself be fraudulent by concealing losses or adverse financial positions.
Relationships	Economic dependency	High supplier dependency—supplier relies on the entity for a significant proportion of its gross turnover/continued solvency.	Supplier dependency creates an incentive for the supplier to offer bribes and an opportunity for the purchaser to request kick-backs to retain business.
		High remuneration dependency—salary at risk or other performance incentive schemes with large bonuses or earn-outs arrangements relative to base salary contingent upon achieving targets.	Overly aggressive or unrealistic performance targets can motivate employees to commit fraud to conceal or overstate actual performance or can be used to rationalise fraud when bonuses are not paid.
	Market depth	Limited market depth restricting competition, existence of oligopoly or monopoly suppliers.	Lack of competition creates opportunities for collusive tendering, and for predatory pricing or other cartel behaviours.
	Proximity to external parties	High degree of direct, face-to-face contact required. Interaction with customers and suppliers at their premises or in the field.	Ongoing personal contact away from direct supervision establishes the opportunity to cultivate inappropriate personal relationships or to groom others to unknowingly facilitate frauds.
	Related parties	Related party transactions—employees or their spouse, children, and other close relatives or associates have a direct or indirect personal pecuniary interest in transactions or confidential information.	Personal interests inherently conflict with public interest and motivate fraudulent behaviour.
		Non-commercial, non-arm's length transactions.	Transaction values that are not set by reference to observable market inputs create the opportunity for fraud.
Attitudes	Internal controls	Failure to quickly address or remediate internal control issues identified by auditors and other parties.	Failure by management to demonstrate a commitment to strong and effective control fosters weak control consciousness and a poor control

Category	Attribute	Factors that increase fraud risk	Fraud exposure
		Corner-cutting, failure to follow due process is tolerated or encouraged.	culture that increases the opportunity both for fraud to occur and for it to remain undetected.
		Senior leadership does not promote good governance.
	Transparency/ accountability	Reluctance to voluntarily disclose information publicly.	Failure to acknowledge mistakes, to accept blame and to report risks fosters a culture of secrecy which increases the risk that unusual or suspect transactions and behaviours will not be reported.
		Limited or poor quality internal reporting to executive.
Use of assets	Intrinsic value of physical assets	Use of highly 'portable and attractive' items of equipment.	Movable equipment and machinery and items of cash or negotiable instruments are inherently more susceptible to theft or misappropriation by employees.
		Handling of cash or other assets readily convertible into cash.
	Intrinsic value of intangibles	Access to commercially sensitive/economically valuable information not publicly available, e.g. intellectual property.	The intangible nature of sensitive information makes it difficult to secure and to prevent being misused for personal gain or advantage.
Decision making	Assignment of authority	Decision making is widely devolved to business units.	The further removed the approval and scrutiny of transactions are from the 'centre' and from the 'top' of the organisation the greater potential for fraud to remain undetected.
		Authority is highly delegated below senior management.
	Decentralisation of operations	Operations in locations remote from central office.	The 'tyranny of distance' makes it harder to establish consistent processes and to understand how controls are being applied.
		Span of management.
	Discretion	Personal discretion applied in determining allocations to third parties.	Staff or elected officials with the discretion to determine how funds are allocated to third parties have the ability to over-ride standard processes and expose their organisation to fraud.
	Supervision	Span of control is high.	Lack of supervision creates the opportunity for staff to commit fraud and that it remains undetected e.g. paying for goods and services that were never received.
		No supervisory review before decisions.
		No centralised monitoring after decisions.

Attachment 7: Indicators of fraud and corruption (“red flags”)

Awareness of warning signs (red flags) for possible fraud or corruption is a useful method of detection. The more interrelated indicators identified, the higher the risk of potential fraud or corruption.

If further information is required, or there is a suspicion of fraud or corruption, contact the department’s Integrity Services Unit on email integrityservices@epw.qld.gov.au.

Behavioural Red flags

Persons who:

- consistently work longer hours than their colleagues, where there is no apparent reason
- infrequently take time off for holidays, or not at all
- attempt to hide their work or are very secretive about the work they’re doing
- are known to be under personal financial pressure
- suddenly have a significant lifestyle change
- are aggressive or defensive when challenged, and/or controlling of certain colleagues
- are subject to consistent complaints
- are consistently breaking the rules
- are reluctant to provide information, delay providing information or provide different information (for example, explanations) to different people
- request that internal audits are delayed so they have adequate time to “prepare”
- request a significant level of information about proposed internal audit scopes
- predominantly use the one supplier
- don’t adhere to procurement procedures.

Financial Red flags

- Cash only transactions
- Higher than normal costs which are not readily explainable
- A large volume of refunds
- Unusually large inventories
- Unusual transactions (even if only for small amounts)
- Persons who make a higher than normal number of mistakes, especially where these lead to a loss
- Persons with unexplained sources of wealth
- Persons who have competing personal business interests
- Persons who submit inconsistent and/or unreasonable expense claims.

Procedural Red flags

- Persons who make procedural or system enquiries which are not related to their duties
- Prospective employees who provide incomplete, inaccurate or inconsistent information as part of employment applications
- Persons who excessively micro-manage
- Insufficient oversight/audit applied
- Suppliers who insist on dealing with just one employee
- Supplier invoices which look different to previous invoices issued by the same supplier
- Attempts to obtain sensitive information such as usernames, passwords and credit card details (for example, phishing emails, whaling attacks)
- Anomalies associated with requests to change supplier bank account details (for example, a request received from an email account not associated with the supplier)
- Lack of transparency
- Too much delegation without proper review procedures.
